

ESSENTIAL OIL COMPENDIUM

Three generations of Browns on a wormwood crop visit

06.23.

FAMILY OWNED SINCE 1908

"I've been fascinated with aromatic plants my entire life. My father and I used to go on walks where he would pull leaves, branches, and flowers from random plants and trees and crush them in his hands. We would smell them together. I was born into this industry, and I can't help being passionate about it," explains Rob Brown, Owner, Director.

Our family's passion for essential oils has been essential to our success. We conduct field visits to assess the crops and predict market fluctuations. With our technical knowledge and advanced equipment, we harness the benefits of nature.

Lebermuth believes in transparency and quality, providing our customers with education, regulatory documents, and high quality ingredients with each day, each oil, and each generation. Because that's our passion.

THE LEBERMUTH DIFFERENCE

We source the finest essential oils from over 30 countries, from top rated growers and premium locations. With Lebermuth's grower direct sourcing relationships, our customers enjoy better quality ingredients via a more direct supply chain, knowing they're helping provide ecological and social sustainability for our farmers.

With our five distillation units in Bremen, Indiana, we feature distillation capabilities, to isolate, place, or reduce constituents to increase usability, reliability, and characteristics of our oils.

We've innovated unique products, Tea Tree Heart and Chamomile Coeur, that solved supply and aroma issues for customers. Our capabilities also include reduction of safrole in Nutmeg, Cinnamon Leaf, and other oils to align with IFRA-approved usage levels, and rectification of oils like Lemongrass and Wintergreen. Premium products that solved supply and aroma issues for our customers.

THE LEBERMUTH DIFFERENCE

To properly distill an oil, it's necessary to know the ratio of constituents. We're one of the first to adopt testing using chiral GC, which enables a more comprehensive and further break down of an oil's individual components. Using this analysis technology, we're able to verify the authenticity and quality of our oils as part of our quality control/quality assurance procedures. When we say we source the highest quality oils, we have the analysis to prove it.

Offering raw materials, pure grade, standardized, kosher, and organic certified essential oils, we also create custom blends to flavor or fragrance many applications, and for therapeutic uses.
